

WARREN CHANG

SOCIAL REALISM IN CALIFORNIA

TRITON MUSEUM OF ART

MAY 22 - AUGUST 29, 2021

ENTRANCE TO HIGHWAY 1, 30 x 40 inches, oil on canvas, 2010

SOCIAL REALISM IN CALIFORNIA

Fall Tilling, 34 x 40 inches, oil on canvas, 2010, Private Collection

Warren Chang's real and true depictions of the lives of California fieldworkers give his art an importance equaled by few, approaching the level of social awareness and relevance of past painters and photographers such as Maynard Dixon and Dorothea Lange, as well as writer John Steinbeck. The lives of immigrant and native fieldworkers is a still-pressing issue and worthy theme. Hauk Fine Arts has represented Chang's work since 2003, and we have seen the passion and concern his work – which has included numerous gallery and museum exhibitions, – stirs in others.

Steve Hauk,
Gallery owner and writer, Author of Steinbeck: The Untold Stories

Pulling Leaves, 20 x 24 inches, oil on canvas, 2019

Drawin into the Light, 16 x 24 inches, oil on canvas, 2019

Essential Worker, 32 x 24 inches, oil on canvas, 2020

Warren Chang is a great artist, not only for his artistry but for his compassion for the underprivileged and migrant farmworkers. When I first met Warren many years ago he told me how he was inspired by the paintings of the French Old Master, Jean Francois Millet, who painted French farmworkers in the nineteenth century. Like Millet's paintings, Warren's are powerful and expressive of these hard working farmworkers who provide our food. I commend Warren for having the courage to paint people of color, migrants in particular, in these times of racist outbursts and hatred towards immigrants. Welcoming immigrants has been the beauty of America. Warren's paintings express that beauty.

Max Ginsburg,
Instructor Art Students League, New York City

Checkers, 34 x 40 inches, oil on canvas, 2014, Private Collection

Triton Museum of Art,
1505 Warburton Ave,
Santa Clara, CA 95050

Open: Tuesday-Sunday, 11:00am-4:30pm,
Closed Monday and Holidays.

Dolores between Ocean & 7th
PO Box 7393 Carmel, CA 93921
1-800-289-2950 II 831-624-3369
www.winfieldgallery.com

COVER IMAGE: Hard Times, 36 x 24 inches, oil on canvas, 2010